

RECLAIMING THE DESERT.

Storing Water for Irrigation a Success.

Some years ago R. M. Graves and T. D. Parkinson conceived the idea of building a dam in Willow Creek, near the Humboldt and Elko boundary line, and storing water in a reservoir for the purpose of irrigating land in Squaw Valley. They invested considerable money in the purchase of land, says the Silver State, and cattle to stock it with, where they proposed building the reservoir, but had not means to carry out the projected enterprise. They endeavored to get San Francisco capitalists interested in the scheme, but without success; then they went east to Chicago and New York, but capitalists considered the experiment too risky and would not invest a dollar. Finally Mr. Graves went to Europe and in London found men who knew that storing water for irrigating purposes had been successful in India, and they at once engaged in the enterprise and incorporated under the name of the Nevada Land and Cattle Company. Work was at once commenced on a dam in Willow Creek, but when it was almost completed the high water in the Spring of 1884 swept it away. In no wise discouraged by the failure the company went to work again in a more systematic manner selecting as a site for the dam a gorge in the canyon through which the creek ran. This gorge is between two rock bluffs, 100 feet high and 150 apart. A steam pump was used to keep the water out of the excavation, which was made in the bed of the creek for the foundation of the dam, and at a depth of fifteen feet solid rock was reached. On this rock were placed in position and a dam twenty-three feet high was built of stones which were faced with three-inch planks tightly caulked. The dam at this height make a lake or reservoir 200 acres in extent with an average depth of fourteen feet of water. It is the intention of the company to raise the dam several feet higher and increase the storage capacity of the reservoir four fold. A tunnel 10x12 feet has been driven through one of the bluffs, and fitted with gates so nicely adjusted that one inch or 50,000 inches, as occasion may require, of water can be drawn from the reservoir at any time. The water is carried in a canal some eight or ten miles long to Squaw Valley, where it is used for irrigating purposes. This year the company have cleared off 500 acres of sagebrush land and sown it in alfalfa. The grass came up beautifully and now large fields of green greet the eye where six months ago there was nothing but sagebrush. It is intended to increase the acreage of alfalfa to ten times its present area, and it is expected that when the valley becomes saturated thoroughly with water very little irrigation will be necessary for grazing lands, and the meadows will not require near so much water after a year or two.

The success of the first experiment made in the county, if not in the State, of storing water in the early Summer, when it is plenty for irrigating later in the season when it is scarce, has added thousands of dollars to the taxable property of Humboldt and Elko counties, and will doubtless induce others to reclaim the deserts where the situation is favorable for making similar reservoirs. Shall we grumble because the change from a desert to productive fields have been wrought by foreign capital, after home capitalists had been urged in vain to try the experiment, and complain because it is successful and promises in a few years to be worth quadruple the amount invested?

Ohio Democrats have appealed to Gen. Rosecrans to stump the State this Fall.

The Prohibition vote in Pennsylvania this Fall is estimated at 35,000.

The New York Republican Convention will have 707 delegates.

The Prohibition party is said to be growing in Texas.

Ship-Building Concerns.

A Herald's Washington special says: An official of the Navy Department said: We are aware that quite a number of Congressmen and others, closely connected with the late Administration, were stockholders of John Roach's concern, which enabled that contractor to absorb most of the navy money. A similar concern has just been started on the Pacific Coast called the Union Iron Works. Its purpose is to build ships and engines, and Senators from the Pacific Coast States, Democrats and Republicans, have taken a great amount of stock. You can readily imagine what such a concern may be capable of doing, with its largest stockholders in the Senate.

Republican Apathy Among Department Clerks.

The N. Y. Times' Washington special says: A member of the Ohio Republican Association says that out of 400 clerks who were organized and formerly went home to vote, he can find only about forty who were willing to make the trip this Fall. He says that many Ohioans and clerks from other States have deliberately used up all their thirty days' leave of absence so that they can have an excuse for remaining in Washington. The action of the forty and subsequent events will be watched with interest.

The Mississippi Republicans have resolved "that in view of the fact that the organization of an opposition to the Democratic state this Fall is useless, because of the well-known impossibility of securing at the polls an honest election, it is the sense of this committee that no convention be called to nominate a State ticket."

It is expected that Secretary Bayard will recommend ex-Governor Reynolds, of Missouri, as Foster's successor as Minister to Spain.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois, is out for Logan's nomination for the Presidency.

A. M. Kelley has tendered his resignation as Minister to Austria, which has been accepted.

Newspapers in Nevada.

The Eureka Sentinel says: Owing to the depression of the silver mining industry the newspaper business is evidently on the wane in Nevada. Of the fifteen counties in the State only thirteen are represented by newspapers, and six by only one paper each. The counties unrepresented are Churchill and Roop. The latter borders on California, has a population of less than 300, is unorganized and seldom ever heard of as a county. The counties that have but one paper each are: Douglas, Lincoln, Lyon, Nye and White Pine. Ormsby is the best supplied of any, having three dailies and one weekly. The total number of papers published in the State—barring the weeklies made up from dailies—is 23. There is no such county as Roop in the State.

The Nevada State Fair.

The Virginia Chronicle says: The State Fair at Reno this year promises to excel any heretofore given by the Agricultural Society of this State. The Fair will open October 12, and close October 17. A purse of $10,000 has been made up by the Society to be bestowed as premiums to the winners in the twenty races that are on the programme. Liberal premiums are also offered competitors in the live stock department and pavilion exhibits. For competing teams in the rifle shooting match, a prize of $150 is offered to the winners, and $60 to the successful contestants in a fireman's race with hose carts. For speed programme, premium list and other information, address C. H. Stoddard, the Secretary, at Reno.

The State Fair.

The Elko Independent says: In another column will be found the advertisement of the Nevada State Fair to be held at Reno during the week commencing Oct. 12, ending Oct. 17. The Reno folks are sparing neither time nor expense to make the Fair a grand success, and there will be a large crowd in attendance.

Humboldt Fruit.

The Silver State says: Charles Zimmerhead brought a load of peaches and apples here yesterday from his ranch in Buena Vista Valley. The peaches, though not as large as the California fruit, are much juicier and better flavored, while the apples are superior in every respect to California apples.

THE RENO STATE FAIR.

The Carson Tribune says:

It is pleasant to see the growing interest relative to the State Agricultural Fair to come off next month at Reno. Nothing tends more to the prosperity of a State than a display of her agricultural and other resources. At the time of the inauguration of the annual Fair precious metals were the main product of Nevada, but of late years other and more permanent interests have been fostered, and now Nevada can exhibit blooded stock equal in purity of breed to any of the older States. Nevada beef commands a better price in the San Francisco market than that raised in the Golden State. Our cereals cannot be surpassed in quantity of yield or quality. Our sheep ranges are increasing yearly in extent; our hay is exported to Eastern States, the fact of its being more nutritious than any produced there and it having been ascertained that its feed to race stock produces an increase in speed, as well as lasting power. With these interesting facts in view it would seem the duty of all dwellers in the State to lend a helping hand, and endeavor by their presence at the Fair grounds and the outlay of whatever spare money they may possess to make the labor of the managers successful. The fare on the local road will, as usual, be reduced and every attention paid to Fair visitors. The arrangements at the grounds have been made with a view to affording all necessary accommodation to visitors, and it is to be hoped that more round tickets may be sold by the V. & T. R. R. than ever before during Fair week.

The Grant Memorial Fund.

The Grant memorial fund drags heavily. The total subscriptions to Wednesday were $72,650. The largest sum contributed Wednesday was $250, from S. J. Tilden. The Times and other papers continue to plead the national character of the fund and the object. The Times says the sum required could be raised in a very short time were personal application made to the wealthy men of the country who esteemed General Grant, but a monument raised in that way would not carry out the idea with which the Association having the matter in charge was formed, which was to build a memorial by means of popular subscriptions.

T. V. JULIEN, Clerk.

Tammany's Want of a Head.

The New York Tribune says: Many members of the Tammany organization are watching curiously to see how the long restrained relation between Commissioner Crocker and John Kelly will continue without an open rupture. Crocker has been one of Kelly's most trusted lieutenants. He evidently believes that Kelly will not come back into Tammany and has forced a close alliance with his colleague, Fire Commissioner Parry, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the county Democracy. He must break with one or the other. Unless Kelly comes back and takes the helm there will be an outbreak and a Kilkeny cat fight. Nobody in Tammany is big enough to fill Kelly's shoes.

The World says: Politicians who ought to know, say there will be a big rumput in the Wigwam if Kelly persists in his interference or dictation. The Crocker faction are determined to have their own way.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

BREVITIES.

Mining stocks are rather weak. Everything passed off pleasantly. Educate the children at home. Reno always does things up brown. Gov. Adams was in town yesterday. The Supreme Court will convene tomorrow.

State Printer Harlow was in town yesterday.

Surveyor General Preble was in town yesterday.

The more they see of Reno the better they like it.

Irwin Ayers arrived from Fort Bidwell last night.

Senator Williams, of Ormsby, came down last evening.

Senator Marker departed Friday night for a trip to the Bay.

Alf. Chantz, the short-hand reporter, was in town yesterday.

Mr. Hammond said Reno was the emerald gem of Nevada.

Mrs. R. H. Lindsay departed for a trip to the Bay last night.

A. E. Cheney, of Eureka, came in from the Great East last night.

The Masons will be here again at the Grand Lodge meeting next June.

Supt. Yerington and D. A. Bender came over from Carson yesterday.

Col. Shaw, one of the Regents, duly observed the proceedings yesterday.

Henry Morris will fix you up in splendid style if you call on him this morning.

"Cut loose from California, and build up at home," sensibly said the orator yesterday.

George Wilson has leased his ranch and ice business for five years to a man by the name of Trask.

Jerry Schooling has been sick several days. His liver is out of order, but don't ask him how it is.

Lieut. Governor Charles E. Laughton returned, rather unexpectedly from Washington Territory yesterday morning.

Rev. J. M. Helsley, of Wadsworth, will preach at the Baptist Church today morning and evening. All are invited.

The University is the Sentinel at the door of the Sierra, which says to the youth of the State "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther."

During the temporary absence of the editor and publisher of the Carson Daily Index Bert Crawford will look after the interest of the paper.

Emory A. Storrs, the well-known Chicago barrister and political orator died at Ottawa, Illinois, Friday night of paralysis of the heart. His death was unexpected.

The Gazette need not bother itself to explain why the JOURNAL does anything. It requires all of its own time and talent to get explanations correct for itself.

John Campbell and Scott Lake have taken a band of sheep on shares and will turn their attention to sheep-raising and wool. The boys will no doubt succeed in their new venture.

Senator Dennis and Ben Fitch departed for the Sacramento Fair last night. Prior to their departure they offered to receipt for the $20,000 due Elko from Washoe, and swore they would strike a horse race or a game of draw and either double the amount or lose the entire sack during Fair week.

Appointed Train Master.

J. A. McBride, who has been agent of the C. P. R. R. Co. at Winnemucca for years, has been appointed Train Master for the Salt Lake and Truckee divisions, with headquarters at Carlin.

Hay Burned.

Last Tuesday 100 tons of hay was burned at Leyton's ranch near Battle Mountain. Tramps are suspected of having started the fire.

"KNOWLEDGE IS POWER."

The Laying of the Corner Stone of the New University.

Yesterday was a lovely day for the observance of the ceremony of the laying of the corner stone of the new University, under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Masons. The special train from Virginia and Carson brought down nearly one hundred persons. No time was lost and the Grand Lodge opened in Masonic Hall in due form, the following Grand officers being present: Most Worshipful, Michael A. Murphy, Grand Master; Right Worshipful, H. S. Mason, Deputy Grand Master; J. H. Dennis, Senior Grand Master; C. N. Noteware, Junior Grand Master; Very Worshipful, J. W. Eckley, Grand Treasurer; J. D. Hammond, Grand Secretary; Rev. G. R. Davis, Grand Chaplain; J. D. Hammond, Acting Grand Orator; J. H. Hubbs, Grand Marshal; W. W. Stevens, Grand Standard Bearer; L. L. Crockett, Grand Sword Bearer; S. Small, Grand Bible Bearer; William McMillan, Grand Senior Deacon; Albert Hires, Grand Steward; Wm. Sutherland, Grand Steward; F. Hamilton, Grand Pursuivant; E. S. Kincaid, Grand Tyler.

The procession was soon formed and started for the hill, where it arrived promptly at 1 o'clock. A large number of town people were already on the grounds and building. The choir, consisting of Mrs. Taylor, Misses Quiffe, Cara, Binkeslee, O'Donnell, and Helesworth, Pinniger, Higgins and Jose, sang a beautiful song, after which Grand Master Murphy said it was proper for more than one reason, that the Ancient Order of the free and Accepted Masons should lay the corner stone, for that order was in early days devoted to operative Masonry, and one of the principles of Masonry is the cultivation of the mind and heart which will be especially the work of this University. He called upon Rev. G. R. Davis, who offered prayer. After the stone was hoisted into place and declared true and trusty the corn of nourishment was scattered over it, the wine of refreshment and oil of joy poured on and the grand honors given. Acting Grand Orator Hammond delivered an eloquent address, portraying the benefits and pleasures of education, which places every man who uses his intellect in communication with the educated men of every country and all preceding ages. He congratulated all upon the auspicious occasion, the fine site etc., and drew a rosy picture of the future of Nevada with its resources developed, and the fine race of people he expects to be the result of its favorable climate and conditions. After the concluding services the choir sang a hymn, Brother Davis offered prayer and the Grand Lodge returned to the hall. Here the brethren closed the Lodge in ample form, and then marched in a body to the Depot Hotel where an elegant lunch had been spread for them by their Reno brethren. At six o'clock they started for home declaring they had enjoyed themselves immensely.

The following list embraces the articles deposited in the corner stone:

Reno Lodge, No. 13, F. & A. M.,—Copy of by-laws, and list of officers.
Grand Lodge, F. & A. M., of Nevada—Copy of Grand communications, and list of officers.

No Wood Cutting.

The Carson Tribune is informed by a gentleman well posted in such matters that but very little, if any, wood will be cut in the mountains this coming year, in consequence of the large amount already on hand, which is considered more than enough to supply the demand for the whole of next year. This news should be the cause of inducing working men to start prospecting for mining property and to commence the search forthwith. From now the weather will probably be such as that travel among the foothills will not be irksome, and so once more the Tribune advises the purchase of picks and the picking up of courage among those out of employment and a general search for the precious metal commenced. Now is the accepted time and the hour to seek for salvation from hard times.

The Wild Deer Mine.

Gilbert Ross, of Dun Glen, has returned from a visit to the Willow Creek mines. He says the Wild Deer, the only mine in the district except the Ohio on which much work has been done is opened systematically and shows a good vein of fair ore. The owners are preparing to make another run with the mill and they have ore enough in sight to keep it running some time.

War on Flour.

The Eureka Sentinel says: The war on flour continues. The California article is laid down here for $3 60 a hundred, and is retailed for $4. John Ainley, of the Eureka flour mills, located at South Fork in Elko county, was in town yesterday with thirty tons of the article of his manufacture, which he sold for $3 a hundred, so as to allow it to be retailed for $3 50. This may not be very pleasant for the producers and the railroad, but the people of Eureka are enjoying the warfare hugely and hope it will develop into a battle of no mean proportions.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately.
